Construction-Reseach-Design-Invention: Elastic Behavior in a Moist Environment

 E-article

West, Mark

Published in Journal of Architectural Education May 2001, Vol.54(4), pp.251-254

This article describes a decade-long research project that intersects the practices of architecture, engineering, teaching, surrealist methods of collage, and construction technology. Two specific examples illustrate the approach to design/research pursued in this work. The first is a studio teaching environment/method that uses analogue construction materials and processes to discover architectural forms and ideas.
